NECESSITIES DRIVE

To Benefit Human Trafficking Victims

Drive Co-Chairs Antoinette Balta, Ebrahim Baytieh, Sonia Kehyeyan and Craig Robson

The two primary first responders to a victim of human trafficking are law enforcement and Waymakers. Waymakers is a nonprofit resource helping people find their way. Whether redirecting youth offenders, helping sheltered children get back on track, unifying troubled families, resolving community conflicts or empowering victims of violence, Waymakers clears the path so clients can advance beyond crisis. When a Waymakers Advocate receives a call, they immediately go to assist the victim. They bring a bag including various necessities to meet the victim wherever he or she is. The victim's clothing may be taken for evidence or they may have barely any clothing on at all. Oftentimes they need the necessities of life, like shelter, food and toiletries. Your donation will go directly to these victims.
