Topic:

This program will provide a judge's view on the how service members and veterans are treated under California and federal law. A combat veteran herself, Justice Moore has dedicated much of her life to explaining, developing, and strengthening the legal protections that protect the nation's military members during and after service. Her presentation will outline the unique, military-specific laws which span the full spectrum of substantive practice areas, including probate, family law, criminal law, juvenile dependency, and the service member civil relief act. The objective of the program is educate attendees on the existing law as well as the emerging trends, preparing civilian lawyers to take pro bono cases from military clients, deepening the connection between the civilian bar and the nation's men and women in uniform.
