Estimating Construction Costs for Claims & Litigation

Cost estimating is a fully-fledged profession. And in the massive world of building-related claims & litigation, some of the people are highly skilled, professional cost estimators; but some are decidedly NOT. Many highly skilled professionals involved in claims management, especially the lawyers, struggle with the numbers that need to be analyzed to make sense of the situation. Among other things, this program will discuss how estimating for claims & litigation is different than for construction and it will teach you to understand the basics of estimating.
