PROGRAM CHAIR
Megan Moghtaderi
Tredway, Lumsdaine & Doyle, LLP

In today's world, we're more likely to be meeting with team members, clients, and Court virtually than in the office. This has forced most of us out of our comfort zones, as we learn new technologies and figure out how to manage remote meetings with a house full of spouses, kids, and dogs.

Update from the Bench:

Points from the Probate Judges on COVID related challenges, remote proceedings and changes to procedures. Practice and trial tips from the bench.

Ethical Considerations for a Remote Practice:

This discussion will include the ethical considerations attorneys need to keep in mind when working or advising clients remotely. This portion of the program will also discuss the newly added comment [1] to Rule 1.1 of the California Rules of Professional Conduct regarding an attorney's obligations to keep abreast of the benefits and risks associated with relevant technology.

Reputation Management

Do you pre-judge potential clients? The subliminal messages you get from others may be the same messages you are conveying to the court and clients! Learn the scientific impact of nonverbal cues, body language, and first impressions in a remote world from a communications expert.
